

General conditions of use – Herve Société

Social media

This website uses social media plugins, or links to these social networks. Even if you are not a subscriber to these social media sites, your IP address is communicated to the servers of these social media organisations. This document does not cover the data collection processes of these social media.

Direct marketing

We do not sell private and personal data.

If, at any time, you decide not to receive commercial or promotional information linked to our products and services, or the products or services of our group or of commercial partners with whom we are carrying out joint promotions or programmes, please send us an email with the subject heading "OPT-OUT". You can also use the opt-out procedure specified in all promotional messages we send you.

Please note that if you choose no longer to receive marketing messages from us, we shall still continue to send you information relating to any account you may have with us, or any ongoing commercial communication you may have with us, such as a request concerning our products and services.

Sharing of personal data

Please note that subject to legislation in respect of data confidentiality, we shall divulge your personal information if we judge ourselves to be compelled to comply with laws, regulations, rulings or legal or governmental requests. In the unlikely case that all or part of our business should be acquired by a third party, information about you shall be communicated to the new proprietor.

Without any obligation on our part, we also reserve the right to gather and share any information which we judge to be useful for implementing an enquiry, or to take measures in the event of suspected fraud, illegal activity, potential harm to persons or goods, in order to protect ourselves and to protect one or several of our users or their successors, or if the law requires it or authorises it.

Finally, please bear in mind that certain parts of our website may, by their nature, be interactive, and may enable you to post information which may be visible to other users. If you do not wish your information to be visible publicly, please do not use these parts of the website.

Third party sites

Certain areas of this website may contain links to third-party websites. This document does not describe the information-collecting practices of other sites, in particular those with links to and from this website. These links are provided for your convenience. Please note however that we have no control over these third parties or their websites, and that these third parties have a different cookies and privacy policy which is applicable to the information you submit when you consult these third-party websites. We advise you to read carefully the confidentiality policies of all websites before submitting personally identifiable information.

Your rights

You can at all times exercise your right of access and, where necessary, to rectify or to delete your own personal data, in compliance with the applicable law relating to privacy protection, by emailing a copy of your identity card or passport. You can also at any time, free of charge and without having to present supporting documents, exercise your right to refuse emails and no longer receive marketing material such as described above.

Security

We use standard industry measures to protect information provided on this website. Although we do our utmost to ensure the security of your personal data, no website is one hundred percent secure. This is why we strongly suggest that you take appropriate measures to protect yourself, in particular by keeping all your usernames and passwords confidential.

Entry into effect

The current policy was drawn up and came into effect on 01/01/2019. We reserve the right, at our sole discretion, to change, modify, add to or delete at any time parts of the current policy. We advise you to consult this page regularly and to read the most recent version of this policy. Your use of this website after the publication of any changes made to the current conditions implies your acceptance of these changes. Notwithstanding the above, we shall not retroactively apply any substantial change in respect of our use of your personal data without your agreement.